reminder of Jesus' own behavior; "he was homeless, he was hungry, he was miserable, he was smitten of the disease, and he was mistaken for a sinner." But he did not turn from these trials and tribulations. Even in the face of death and incarceration, Jesus is not disenchanted.
Another reminder of Jesus' own behavior is his compassion for sinners. "If you want to be perfect, go, sell your possessions and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven."
He is not condemning; rather, he calls us to act in love, to do the will of the Father. A third thought is worth sharing: God pursues his purposes in the midst of sin and suffering. From the very moment that Abraham's descendants were scattered by the Babylonians, Jesus was calling his disciples to go into the world with his message of Good News. He set out on a mission of love and mercy from the very moment that he first went to the cross. And that mission is still going on. "But the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us. We have seen his glory, the glory of the one and only Son, who came from the Father, full of grace and truth." The glory is his divine glory, the glory of the one and only Son of God. The glory is also the divine glory of the Father. Jesus does not come to bring glory to himself. He comes to do the Father's will, to bring salvation to the world. Glory to God is not a glory to Christ, but to the Father. That glory is not his glory, but the glory of the Father. The glory is also the glory of the Spirit and of all the saints. He is the divine
