All archived Flash games are the original version stored in the database and saved in their original state, including the original artwork, characters, music and sounds. Why Ninja Kiwi's Flash games are the best? Foremost, Ninja Kiwi Flash games were really popular in the web gaming community with fans expressing much love and passion for their Ninja Kiwi Flash games. You can find many fansites, online forums, as well as blogs dedicated to just Ninja Kiwi Flash games in the web. No matter how dedicated you are to Ninja Kiwi games, you are sure to find something you will love. You can find many great and original Ninja Kiwi Flash games that came before Ninja Kiwi. However, Ninja Kiwi is not the original creator of these games. The author, the designer, the developer, and the publisher of these games are mainly the fansites and blogs, who, after being disappointed by the lack of Flash support, decided to do it themselves. Why so many Ninja Kiwi games? As early as in 2006, there was a growing interest in Flash and HTML5, and Flash games started to die. To save their fans, people started collecting every Flash game they could find, and compiling them in an archive. The result was a huge collection of awesome Flash games, archived and preserved. The first great Flash game archive was Ninja Kiwi Games Archives, started by Eric Fu. As the collections were growing, people started providing some technical support to the site. Soon, more and more volunteers, all working full time, were providing the resources, admin, website coding, and editing of new games. The creation of the Ninja Kiwi Archive is a labor of love of all those people that gathered in the meantime. Who is the creator of Ninja Kiwi Archive? The site creator and the main site administrator of Ninja Kiwi Archive is Krys T. Two individuals who work as webmaster, designer, administrator, and coder for the whole archive. Krys T is one of the main people behind Ninja Kiwi. He worked there as a developer of Flash games in 2009, and decided to launch the archive as a community project. How do you do this? Well, creating an archive is not a simple matter, for a lot of reasons. A few of them are:
